

TRIPLE ENTENTE ONLY A MYTH

RUSSIA UNDER NO OBLIGATION TO ENGLAND.

Cool to France Too—St. Petersburg Press Content—King George's Winning General Respect—60 Names Cut Off Court Invitation List—London Social News.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
LONDON, Jan. 21. Whatever may be the official utterances European opinion is now practically unanimous that Russia recognizes no obligations of even a moral nature toward Great Britain or France so far as the combination known as the triple entente is concerned. Her treaty alliance with France imposes, of course, certain definite obligations which the Czar is presumably ready to fulfill. The entente with England, however, carries with it no pledges beyond the known agreement regarding Persia.

Russian opinion on the whole situation is frankly callous and cynical. Thus, THE SUN'S St. Petersburg correspondent writes: "Russia is now undergoing the unique sensation of having the diplomatic representation of the two leading democracies of Europe expressing the most cordial friendship for the Czar and the Government, while the nations in whose name they speak are themselves showing open suspicion and distrust of Russia's present diplomacy. It is evident here that the triple entente is not in a healthy state. The official organ in St. Petersburg regards the situation without regret and reflects with satisfaction that Russia has no favors to ask from either of her associates. The popular press is conducting an open anti-English campaign."

KING GEORGE MAKING GOOD.
King George, as he is settling to his work, is making a strong impression on all who come in contact with him. He takes the greatest care to become thoroughly informed on all matters submitted to him. He possesses the ability not to waste his time on details. He never hurries his judgment, to which in the last years of his life King Edward often deferred.

"What does George think?" was a frequent query of King Edward's. King George is free from affectation. He does not pretend to grasp what he does not understand, but asks pertinent questions until he is satisfied. Once he has decided it is very difficult to induce him to change his mind. He shows exceptional consideration for all about him.

Unlike his father, he likes to be left alone to read. He is a great reader of serious books. He is not so much addicted to fiction. He is very domestic and is fond of early hours. Consequently those in his honor attendances upon him find their work light, whereas his secretaries are kept extremely busy.

The King intends to give a number of dinners to men only at Buckingham Palace in February, a form of hospitality he particularly enjoys. They will be as informal as is compatible with his position, for he has a truly naval dislike for unnecessary ceremony. King Edward delighted in knee breeches for evening wear. King George generally dispenses with these and allows his friends to arrive dressed as for an ordinary dinner.

He is nothing like so particular as was his father as to what he eats, but he does not lay such stress on very short meals. He smokes a great deal, but is almost a teetotaler. A weak whiskey and soda is his general dinner drink. He seldom takes a second glass. On ceremonial occasions he takes a glass of champagne. More rarely he sips after dinner a glass of port, although he always has it poured out in order not to render any guest uncomfortable who might like to sample the famous royal wine.

REVISED COURT LIST.
The King and Queen have gone provisionally through the whole list of court invitations and struck out some sixty names, including those of several individuals whose faces were familiar at Buckingham Palace in King Edward's day and who were in closest touch with the royal set.

The latest report is that the next Governor-General of Canada will be the Duke of York, the Queen's brother. He is an officer of the First Life Guards. He has been Military Attaché at Vienna, and he served in the South African war. These are not experiences necessarily fitting him for a great civil position, but he is a popular man and has charming manners. He married a sister of the Duke of Westminster.

ROME SOCIAL STIR.
There was some semblance of social life in London this week. The Duchess of Manchester and Mrs. A. W. W. Astor have been hostesses. The Duchess gave a dinner on Friday to twenty guests. Mrs. Astor gave two luncheons. Mrs. Spender-Clay, Mrs. Chauncey and Mrs. Newhouse were among the guests.

Lady Cunard entertained Mrs. A. Ladenburg at an informal dinner at the Ritz on Wednesday, where a small jolly party of Americans gathered. The Bradley Martins have returned to town. They attended the new Pinerio play on Thursday and Lady Desborough's ball for her daughter on Wednesday. This was a beautiful affair given at Taplow Court, just outside of London.

Corra, Countess of Strafford, gave a dinner and took her guests in motor cars to a ball in the country. Hunt balls are in full swing. A brilliant one was given on Friday by the Duke of Devonshire at Eastbourne, while the Pynchley hunt ball on Thursday numbered many Americans among the dancers. The Countess of Craven, the Marchioness of Dufferin and Lady Cooper were among those present.

The King and Queen are entertaining at Windsor. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harcourt were among those who received commands to appear.

Lady Acheson, who presented her husband with a son on Thursday, was the victim of a motor accident recently, being thrown out of a skidding taxicab. Both she and the child are doing well.

It is considered that the London season will commence much earlier than usual. The opera season opens in the middle of April, so society will assemble in London directly after Easter, especially as the first court will be held early in May. Royalty will not attend the opening night of the opera owing to mourning, but all the usual boxholders will be present.

Sir Bache Cunard, Mrs. A. J. Drexel, J. A. Drexel, J. P. Grace, C. L. Graff and H. G. Seiffert sailed on the Mauritania, as did Mrs. Grouitch, Mary Moore and Sir Charles Wyndham, who looked at the last moment, and who are going over to New York partly on business and partly for pleasure.

Ten Years More of Jai Alai.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.

HAVANA, Jan. 21. The City Council has voted a ten-year concession to the Jai Alai Company, the old concession having expired last season.

GERMAN COURT PRESENTATION

Three American Women Gloriously Arrived—Berlin Severe to "Koenigslander."

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
BERLIN, Jan. 21. At the drawing room on Thursday, the American presenters were Mrs. Grey, who wore a light blue satin gown embroidered with pearls and beads, and a train of the same style. Mrs. Trent, wearing pale green satin with a mouseline de soie overdress embroidered with pearls and a train of white and gold brocade embroidered with pink roses, and Miss Yvette Borin of Minnesota, wearing a pink mouseline de soie overdress and train to match.

Humperdinck's new opera "Koenigslander" did not find the same favor here as it is reported to have met with in New York. It was produced at the Royal Opera. There was a crowded house, but the Kaiser was not present. The critics say that both in the story and the music the composer tampered with "the sacred spirit of the German folk tale," which he so admirably exploited in "Hansel and Gretel," and introduced into the opera a strain of modern suffering and longing inconsistent with the atmosphere of fairydom.

The flock of trained geese caused much amusement.

STEWART-STORY BRIDAL HITCH.

U. S. Consular Rule Made Wedding in Rome Almost Impossible.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
ROME, Jan. 21. A difficulty arose at the recent wedding here of Commander Stewart of the British Embassy and Gwendoline Story, daughter of Waldo Story of New York. The Italian law demands a consular certificate that there is no impediment to the marriage of a foreigner before a marriage in Italy is allowed. The State Department has now strictly forbidden all American consular officials to issue such certificates.

The difficulty was overcome by Mayor Nathan deciding that instead of a certificate a so-called act of notoriety was sufficient. This consists of a statement signed by four well known people who declare under oath that so far as they know no impediment to the marriage exists.

The civil wedding took place on Wednesday and the religious ceremony Thursday at the American Episcopal Church. The British Ambassador gave away the bride in the absence of her father.

DIPLOMATS AT MADRID.

Special Mexican Ambassador to Be Feted—Appropos of Portugal.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
MADRID, Jan. 21. The Government is preparing special entertainments of an intimate character in honor of Señor Federico Gamboa, Mexican Ambassador Extraordinary, who will arrive here at the end of the month. Gamboa is the son of the late Mexican President Porfirio Díaz and is a close friend of the Spanish King. He is the most celebrated novelist in Mexico. He was formerly Sub-Secretary of State. After he fulfills his mission here he will proceed to Brussels, having been appointed Mexican Minister to Belgium.

Señor Perez Caballero, Spanish Ambassador to France, arrived here this morning. Later he held a conference with the Minister of State. It is said that his visit to Madrid is connected in some way with the happenings in Portugal.

DOINGS IN SPAIN.

Reopening of the Cortes in February—Lerroux Not to Go Abroad.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
MADRID, Jan. 21. It is probable that the reopening of the Cortes will be hastened. It will meet again, it is said, in February instead of March. Señor Valarino, Minister of Justice, has gone to Barcelona, where he will preside at the ceremonies attendant upon the inauguration of the Social Museum.

Señor Calbeton, Minister of Commerce, Industry and Public Works, is now charged with the administration of all matters pertaining to emigration, which were formerly under the direction of the Minister of the Interior.

Deputy Lerroux, the Radical agitator, against whom numerous charges have been made affecting his character and dealings in financial affairs, denies the report that he is shortly to leave Spain again, going to South America, Cuba or Mexico.

GUERRA PICKS ASSASSIN.

Says Capt. Cordoves of the Murales Was One of the Men Who Shot Him.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
HAVANA, Jan. 21. Gen. Pino Guerra identified this morning Capt. Cordoves of the murales, who is under arrest, as one of the men who attempted to assassinate him. He said when he saw Cordoves: "That is he unless another identical with him exists."

Cordoves is confined in Atraz Castle.

Popularity Contest for Operas Shows the French Composers Lead at Home and Abroad—Winners of the Champagne Region—New Orleans Capt. Duffield.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
PARIS, Jan. 21. The recent contest of French composers against the frequency with which French works occupied the Orchestre du Conservatoire induced the Evening Post to ask its readers to vote what ten operas they wished to see most frequently. There were 26,283 voters with the following results: "Carmen," 26,116 points; "Manon," 20,521; "Loulise," 15,408; "Lakmé," 14,374; "Werther," 13,597; "Mignon," 12,329; "Mireille," 10,943; "The Barber of Seville," 9,002; "La Bohème," 5,892 and "La Traviata," 5,150.

Premier Brand is face to face with another very difficult position very similar to that which M. Clemenceau had to meet. As the postal strike during Champagne's ministry was paralleled by the railway strike during Brand's, so the latter is called on to handle a movement in the Champagne district which recalls the Midi troubles of 1907. The latter, however, never assumed the same grave character which already marks the present movement, in which one wine dealer has already suffered 150,000 francs ($30,000) worth of damage and another almost as much.

The movement is not a sudden outburst. The discontent which has been seething in the district for four or five years found expression on October 1, when 10,000 vineyard workers made a "manifestation" at Epervier. On November 7 the same workers prevented the delivery of forty casks of wine consigned to a local manufacturer, some being wrecked and the remainder being returned to the sender. On December 26 a wagonload of wine was destroyed at Hautvillers.

When Champagne was delimited in 1900, that is, the use of the name limited to wine grown in certain specified localities, it was thought that the vineyard workers would be satisfied, but ever since they have been demanding further legislation to prevent wine manufacturers from importing wines, champagneing them and selling them as champagne. For two years the harvest has been dull. It has not reached the normal since 1907, and this added to the workers' misfortunes.

Yet while the harvests have thus diminished, the export from the Champagne district has increased considerably. Manufacturers say this is possible by the use of old stocks. The vintagers maintain that it is done by the substitution and use of wines imported from other parts of France. They are therefore demanding the most stringent legislation limiting the name "champagne" to wine grown and manufactured in the Champagne district.

Paris has produced a new paper for men, La Mode Masculine, with a mission to improve the male Parisian's dress. The new authority lays it down that President Fallieres is the only Frenchman justified in wearing a dress suit at any hour of the day. A man's wardrobe must include four silk hats, one of which is for rainy days; two soft hats; two derbies; a straw hat; a real Panama for the opera; and a soft felt.

The aviation committee of the Aero Club has made new conditions for the French Michelin cup of 1911, but they must be ratified by the Aeronautic Sportive Commission before coming into force. The cup remains a distance test, but it will not be completed for in an aerodrome. The competitors can choose two points from thirty to sixty miles apart between which they will fly. They will be at liberty to land as often as they like, but the speed must never be less than thirty miles an hour. The motor, propeller, canvas, &c., must be officially sealed to prevent substitution during the competition. Two seated machines may be used and a passenger may manipulate the machinery, but the original entrant must begin and finish the race.

DREW A RAZOR ON LIPSTON.

Man Seemingly Insane Holds Sir Thomas Up for Money at His Home.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
LONDON, Jan. 21. Sir Thomas Lipston has a startling experience this morning with a man who, posing as a detective from Scotland Yard, gained admittance to his residence at Osidge, Southgate.

Sir Thomas met the man in his ballroom. The man began to act strangely and leaned against the door of the room, thereby barring the passage. The man then drew a razor from his coat pocket and exclaimed, "I want money."

Sir Thomas pretended to agree to the demand and succeeded in inducing the man to let him leave the room in order to get the cash. He promptly telephoned for the police, who quickly arrived and arrested the intruder.

It is believed that the man is insane.

THE NEW RUSSO-GERMAN DEAL.

Notes Embodying Terms to Be Exchanged—Full Publicity Promised.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 21. The Russo-German negotiations will probably be embodied in a change of notes between Berlin and St. Petersburg.

It is reported that the documents do not contain secret clauses and will be published in extenso in the Government Messenger.

It is also stated that M. Sazonoff, the Russian Foreign Minister, who is now in Paris, will go to London. He may exchange views with the Foreign Ministers of France and Great Britain.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
PARIS, Jan. 21. The will of the late Georges Herin bequeaths 975,000 francs, or about $195,000, to charities. This includes 500,000 francs, or $100,000, to the Children's Seashore Home at Atlantic City.

MESSINA GROWS APACE.

Birth Rate 60 Per Cent. Greater Than Deaths Since the Disaster.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
ROME, Jan. 21. Statistics concerning Messina show that the population has increased to 130,000. The monthly birth rate exceeds by 60 per cent. the death rate.

The population is now greater than it was before the earthquake. This is due to the fact that the inhabitants are lodged at the public expense, which attracts many destitute people.

BIG REAL ESTATE TRANSFER.

State Deeds 180 Acres to N. Y. Central and Pays $944,000 for Company's Land.

UTICA, Jan. 21.—One of the largest real estate transfers in the history of Onondaga county was announced to-day following the recording of the deed in the County Clerk's office. By the terms of a voluminous deed, accompanied by many maps, the State of New York conveys to the New York Central railroad company the title to about 180 acres of land within the limits of the city of Rome. The acquisition of this land by the New York Central is due to the necessity of changing the location of its tracks in that city on account of the construction of the barge canal.

After a long series of conferences between the State officials and representatives of the New York Central company an agreement was reached whereby the State was to acquire certain property belonging to the railroad company and the company was to become the purchaser of lands belonging to the State. By the terms of this agreement the State will pay the New York Central company about $944,000, in addition to giving that corporation title to the 180 acres specified in the above mentioned deed.

On the face of this deal it would appear that the State was getting decidedly the worst of the transaction, but the railroad company argued that it was no trifling matter to change the entire course of its four tracks and many sidings in a city of the area of Rome, and finally won its contention. The proposed railroad changes at Rome will carry the company's tracks almost to the southern boundary line of the city, and besides eliminating a dangerous curve will also shorten the distance between Utica and Syracuse by at least a half mile.

AUTO FATALITIES GROW.

More People by Half Killed in Massachusetts in 1910 Than in 1909.

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—There was an increase of nearly 50 per cent. in fatal automobile accidents in Massachusetts in the year 1910, according to the annual report of the State Highway Commissioners. There were 1,182 accidents in which automobiles were concerned, an increase of 32, but there were 77 killed, compared with 32 in 1909. The accidents in the country diminished from 314 in 1909 to 222 last year, but in the cities and towns they increased from 816 to 990.

The commission, having considerable data relating to the fatal accidents, concludes that in many instances they happened entirely from carelessness or recklessness on the part of pedestrians. Of those killed last year 25 were in machines, 44 were pedestrians, 4 were bicyclists, 3 were occupants of carriages and 1 a street car passenger. Of the total accidents 807 occurred in the daytime.

The commissioners urge the necessity of greater care on the part of pedestrians.

Legislature Does Some Routine Business.

ALBANY, Jan. 21.—Establishing an entirely new record of its own by meeting on Saturday, the Legislature convened to-day and disposed of unimportant routine business before the noon hour arrived for the fourth joint balloting on United States Senator. Majority Leader Robert F. Wagner presided in the Senate in the absence of Lieut.-Gov. Conway. Majority Leader A. E. Smith introduced a bill in the Assembly amending the executive law to compel counties to pay the expenses of such legal services. This is in accord with recommendations made by Gov. Dix in his annual message.

BACK STAIRS NEWS HUNTING

ALLEGED AMERICAN WOMAN TRIES TO BRIBE A BUTLER.

London "Times" Prints Letter Revealing Elaborate System of Social Espionage in the Homes of Prominent Britons—The Yellow Newspapers Scored.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN.
LONDON, Jan. 21. The full weight of the heaviest wrath of London's leading newspaper descended to-day with a "sickening thud" upon an American woman who is attempting to introduce the lowest methods of yellow journalism for procuring intimate news of English society. The Times unfortunately does not give the offender's full name or address. It is content to describe her as Harriet Blank. It seems she wrote a letter to a butler who advertised for a situation, wherein she said:

"I shall be pleased to hear from you if you have half an hour to spare once or twice a week and would care to turn it into cash by writing me a long gossiping letter about the names of a dozen persons who stay in houses where you are employed. I pay liberally and settle each month. I write for some American papers which insist on having current gossip, amusing stories, &c., about well known people over here and I buy large quantities of such letters regularly. If you think you would care to double or treble your salary in this way write me a good specimen letter. I will then write you more fully as to terms. To give you an idea of what I buy I may say that I follow the names of a dozen persons well known on both sides of the Atlantic. It may readily be imagined that nothing could so stir the British to its depths as such an attempt as this to violate privacy. The Times heads a scorching leader on the letter 'A New Pest of Society,' and says:

"The letter is a complete revelation of the existence of a system the existence of which has often been suspected but never so fully exposed. It will shock and disgust every decent person and especially those of the same sex with the debased journalist who wrote the letter. We suppress her surname and address, not wishing to give her and her system an advertisement or to direct venal possessors of the news she asks for to a market for their worthless wares. The letter suggests the source of many of those stupid, nasty or exaggerated stories of English society which fill the lower sort of American newspapers."

To this point has come in the hands of the worst kind of American journalists the art of society reporting. The story about the letter throws a lurid light upon the tastes, ideals and standards of life which flourish in a modern democracy and which we regret to say are fostered by a democratic press. "The heirs of all the ages are thus taught every morning to interest themselves in little tattle about a world with which they have nothing in common and to cultivate an ennoblement of which Thackeray never dreamed. What a chance for a new and fiercer Thackeray to make the readers of this tainted stuff thoroughly ashamed, for they know now if they did not before that it is tainted. It is bought with the price of corruption. It is got by means deliberately designed to violate the most elementary of social rights, the right to preserve one's privacy. Money is lavished to break down the confidence between masters and servants and to change the constant service of the antique world into a habit of hypocrisy which sells secrets behind one's back.

"This is an odious state of things indeed and surely something could be done to stop it if the respectable American newspapers would take the matter up and expose at once the demoralizing nature of the news purveyed and the detestable methods of the purveyors."

Bishop McDonnell at Church Dedication.

Bishop McDonnell will be present to-day at the dedication of the new Church of St. Raymond at Lynbrook, L. I. The Rev. Thomas E. Carroll, rector of the Church of St. Vincent de Paul in Williamsburg, will officiate at the solemn high mass. Mgr. Edward McCarty, rector of St. Augustine's Church in Brooklyn, will preach the sermon. The church was ready for dedication a year ago, but was almost totally destroyed by a storm that swept over Long Island. The Rev. D. R. Carroll is rector of the parish.
